

Certified Energy Manager (CEM) Training
Sponsored by the Association of South Carolina Energy Managers (ASCEM) and the South Carolina Energy Office (SCEO)

What is a Certified Energy Manager (CEM)?

It's a professional certification awarded by the Association of Energy Engineers to recognize energy managers who have demonstrated a high level of competence through education, work experience, and written examination. Objectives: To raise the professional standards of those engaged in energy management. To improve the practice of energy management by encouraging energy managers in a continuing program of professional development. To identify persons with acceptable knowledge of the principles and practices of energy management related disciplines and laws governing and affecting energy managers through completing an examination and fulfilling prescribed standards of performance and conduct. To award special recognition to those energy managers who have demonstrated a high-level competence and ethical fitness for energy management.

For additional details on the CEM program, see <http://www.aeecenter.org/certification/CEMpage.htm>.

Education and Experience Requirements:

Energy managers with any one of the following prerequisites may apply:

- (a) An Engineering or Architectural Graduate and/or P.E. or R.A. with at least three years' experience or
- (b) A four-year Degree in Business or related degree with at least five years' experience in energy management or
- (c) A two-year Technical Degree with eight years of experience in energy management or
- (d) Ten years or more verified experience in energy management.

Training and Examination:

The Association of South Carolina Energy Managers and the South Carolina Energy Office will offer a classroom training program to prepare qualified energy managers to take the certification examination. The instructor will administer the exam on the final day of the program.

The program will consist of five days of classroom instruction and one day of examination. The proposed fee is $450.00 to cover the training manual and examination fee. All other costs are being provided by ASCEM and SCEO to encourage participation. The usual registration fee for this type of training exceeds $1,000.

Schedule and Location:

The training program will be held in Columbia in late Summer or Fall 2004. It will be scheduled one day a week for five weeks, and the examination will be administered the sixth week.
